

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A sunlight defracting device for creating aesthetically pleasing light displays on walls near windows includes a blank compact disc having a light refractive surface, a ball having a non-diametric flat surface attached to the disc by means of an adhesive strip and a base on which the ball may be rested. The components may be sold in the assembled form or as a kit in unassembled form.